

SOPHIE RITSON - CV

RESEARCH AND TEACHING AREAS

Areas of specialisation

Philosophy of science in practice, science and technology studies, and science and values

Areas of competence

History and philosophy of modern sciences and technologies, and ethics of sciences and technologies

APPOINTMENTS

University of Melbourne, Australia – Research Strategy Project Officer Chancellery Research and Enterprise Research Collaboration Strategy	2022 -
University of Melbourne, Australia – Research Quality Officer Secondment in Computing and Information Systems Project on research quality, impact, and benefit	2022
University of Melbourne, Australia – Research Grants Officer Research Grant and Contract Services, Research Innovation and Commercialisation Administration of Researcher Development Schemes	2021 - 2022
University of Melbourne, Australia – Tutor Historical and Philosophical Studies (HPS)	2021
University of Klagenfurt, Austria – Postdoctoral Research Fellow Department of Science Communication and Higher Education Research	2016 - 2020
University of Sydney, Australia – Lecturer School of History and Philosophy of Science	2013 - 2016

HONORARY AND VISITING POSITIONS

University of Sydney – Honorary Associate School of History and Philosophy of Science	2016 - 2021
University of Edinburgh – Eidyn Academic Visitor School of Philosophy, Psychology and Language Sciences	2019

COLLABORATIONS

Next Generation Event Horizon Telescope Collaboration (ngEHT) Global collaboration (over 500 participants from over 30 countries) History, Philosophy, and Culture Working Group (Collaborations and Siting)	2022 -
Epistemology of the Large Hadron Collider Collaboration of universities from Austria, Germany, Switzerland, and the USA Producing Novelty and Securing Credibility: LHC Experiments in an STS perspective	2016 - 2020

EDUCATION

University of Sydney Ph.D. (History and Philosophy of Science)	2012 - 2016
University of Cambridge Visiting Student (History and Philosophy of Science)	2014 - 2015
University of Melbourne B.Sc, First Class Honours Majors: Physics and History and Philosophy of Science	2006 - 2011

MANUSCRIPTS IN PREPARATION

Book manuscripts

Ritson, S. The String Wars

Papers

Ritson, S. (In preparation) "Non-discovery, Null Results, and Scientific Progress"

TEACHING

University of Melbourne

"Thinking About Science Past and Present" 2021
Tutor
Advanced undergraduate history and philosophy of science subject

Epistemology of the Large Hadron Collider Research Unit

"The practice approach in history and philosophy of science" 2018
Responsible for designing and leading the Postdoc and PhD workshop
International Summer School "Particle Physics at the Crossroads"

University of Klagenfurt, Austria

"Ethical Regimes of Knowledge Production and Indigenous Tissue Samples" 2017
Masters level subject (Masters in Science and Technology Studies)
Responsible for designing the seminar syllabus, delivered all lectures

University of Sydney

"Science Ethics and Society" 2016
Course Coordinator and Lecturer
Advanced undergraduate Science and Technology Studies subject

"What is this thing called Science?" 2016, 2015, 2014
Course Coordinator and Lecturer
Introductory undergraduate history and philosophy of science subject

"What is this thing called Science?" 2013, 2012

Tutor
Introductory undergraduate philosophy of science subject

“Bioethics”

2016, 2013

Tutor
Undergraduate ethics subject

INTERNATIONAL GRANT SUCCESS

‘Producing Novelty and Securing Credibility: LHC Experiments in an STS perspective’ Austrian Science Fund, €408,450 (co-authored with Professor Martina Merz, Professor Peter Mättig, and Helene Sorgner). Part of the ‘Epistemology of the Large Hadron Collider’ grant proposal to the DFG and FWF, awarded approximately AUD 3.3 million

PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT

Philosophy at the Large Hadron Collider: An Interview with Sophie Ritson (2019) Forum
